

USE OF THE INDEX

Book Publishing Company uses an indexing system especially suited to the municipal codes. Similar in form to the usual index, our system follows code organization and is designed to facilitate supplementation. Each section is indexed under one main heading, with single references for required appeals, fees, bonds, licenses and permits. Multiple entries increase page costs and the likelihood of error in later supplements; therefore, extensive cross-references are used in lieu of multiple entries to direct the code user to the information sought.

To help you understand how our indexing system works, listed below are eight typical entries. These entries are keyed to brief explanations of their form and purpose. The typeface of a cross-reference indicates its place in the index. Here are some examples:

EXPLANATION OF ENTRIES

1. Information is under a specific heading, such as SALES, USE TAX or TRANSIENT OCCUPANCY TAX.
2. Related entries can be found under the heading VEHICLE.
3. Information can be located at another division of this heading.
4. Officials and agencies usually have their own entries.
5. Parking provisions of the traffic title are indexed separately under PARKING.
6. Information is under the heading TRAFFIC, consolidated under the subheading Control device.
7. Provisions have been consolidated with similar information, under the heading PEDDLER.
8. Zoning provisions are indexed under ZONING. A more extensive treatment is given these provisions: permitted uses and development standards are listed under both specific and general headings, as in these examples:

Important Facts About Book Publishing Company

- Editing Full time and experienced attorneys and editors edit your code and supplements. You can rely on your code being well researched and organized.
- Proofreading We proofread all provisions twice to ensure accuracy.
- Indexing Our indexes are designed to remain accurate after the code is supplemented. Our staff of professional indexers includes members of the American Society of Indexers.
- Customer Relations Our Customer Relations representatives maintain regular contact with all our customers. The representatives can give advice and answer questions on code matters.
- Employees We are an equal opportunity employer.
- Proven Record We have provided codification and supplement services to more than 1500 cities, counties, states and U.S. Territories.

Additional Services Offered

- Reprints We can provide reprints of various titles of your code such as the zoning or traffic codes. Our price includes a special 65 lb. page cover printed with the title of the reprint. Most code reprints can be reduced to a smaller page size at no additional expense.
- Supplements You can have regular supplements on any schedule you want at no additional cost.
- Binders We can supply you with a variety of binders for codes and reprints of special titles. Binders come in a variety of colors with appropriate printing.
- Checklist We can provide a checklist of all current pages in your code. This helps you verify the looseleaf pages have been inserted correctly.
- Advance Sheets Monthly advance sheets list code sections that have been amended, repealed or renumbered since the last supplement. They alert you to code changes in between supplements.
